DETAILED ACTION

1. Applicant's election without traverse of Group III in Paper No. 9 is acknowledged. In the response, the Applicant request clarification in terms of Claim 39 which was included in the Examiner's restriction requirement. It is noted that Claim 39 was added to the instant application via Preliminary Amendment A filed by the Applicant on February 26, 2002. Further, the Examiner that thought the Applicant elected Group III, the Applicant incorrectly listed claims 1-38 as being in Group III. Hence, the Examiner will assume that the election is of Group III, Claims 21-39 as recited in the office action.

2. Claims 1-20 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim.

Election was made without traverse in Paper No. 9.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 21-28, 30 and 32-39 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Vogel et al (US 2002/0055006 A1, also WO 001/78981A1). Vogel et al teach a multilayer, co-extruded ionomeric decorative surface to be coupled to a substrate wherein the multilayer, coextruded film is produced by the same co-extrusion method as instantly claimed including cutting the coextruded film to desired lengths and then stacking the film, and comprises the same clear and colored layers as instantly claimed wherein given the composition of the layers is the same as instantly claimed, including the incorporation of metallic flakes in the colored layer(s), the layers would have the same clarity and scratch and mar performance as instantly claimed (Claims, Paragraphs 0015-0059, 0066, 0083, 0084, 0090-0125, 0170-0171, and 0177.)

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 29 and 31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Vogel et al. The teachings of Vogel et al are discussed above. Though Vogel teaches that the coextruded layer(s) comprise polymeric material and metallic flakes, Vogel does not teach that the metallic flakes and polymeric material have moisture content as instantly claimed. However, it is well known in the art that moisture content of an extrudable resin is a result-effective variable affecting extrusion and the quality of the extruded resin coating or layer wherein a lower moisture content is desired as taught by Roys et al (Abstract; Example 2.) Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to determine the optimum moisture content of the metallic flakes and polymeric material to utilize in the invention taught by Vogel et al.
